1. Introduction

The Ports' Health and Food Control Section is responsible for controlling imported food and ensuring their safety and suitability for human consumption. As part of the department's plans to improve the work mechanisms, we launched the "Food Registration System".

The system is now available on our website of the Ministry of Public Health under the page of Ports' Health and Food Control Section. It's considered one of the most important requirements for the implementation of an Electronic Management System in the future.

The system includes all information on imported/ exported food, which facilitates the process of control in modern ways and tracking it in case if they are linked to a risk or a possible recall, this system will reduce the quantity of rejected or re-exported foodstuff due to labelling issues.

The reordered information will serve later for the Electronic Management System which is based on the level risk approach.

Since this system is still new, the level of risk will be determined at this stage according to the nature of the products themselves.

All the details required and asked during your registration were designed to be comprehensive and accurate, and each needed information was based on what will be used in future systems.

This manual includes an explanation to the user for the steps required for company registration as a first phase and also how to register the imported/ exported foodstuff.

You will find in this guide all the detailed information needed with screenshots and steps to follow in order to register.
